SNA 5k steps off today

The 79th running of the Surface Navy Association's 5k By the Bay will step off from Arleigh Burke Hall at the Surface Warfare Officers School Command (SWOSCOLCOM) today, rain or shine, at 5 p.m.

The race will benefit the Navy-Marine Corps Relief Society, and follows a flat, fast course along Narragansett Bay with spectacular views of the Newport Pell Bridge, the Naval War College, Naval Station Newport, and SWOSCOLCOM.

Because of the Naval War College graduation, which was moved from this morning to 1:30 p.m. this afternoon, the race course has been altered slightly to avoid traffic conflict, Lt. David Noe, race coordinator, has announced.

Trophies will be awarded in all individual age categories, and team competition categories.

The post-race awards party will include food and beverages donated by sponsors, plus door prizes and entertainment.

Those who register early online at www.sna5k.com will receive a multi-color t-shirt.

Cutter to mark starting line of Newport-to-Bermuda race

The Coast Guard cutter Juniper, homeported at Naval Station Newport, will mark the starting line for the Newport to Bermuda Race, a 635-mile ocean sailboat race, today at the mouth of Narragansett Bay.

Juniper will anchor at the starting position and will serve as patrol commander for the flotilla of Coast Guard and Coast Guard Auxiliary vessels involved in enforcing the safety zones around the race.

The buoy tender will also be available as a press boat.

Newport Bermuda Race Organizing Committee members will be onboard Juniper, as will the starting official, who will mark the beginning of each division start.

Every two years in mid-June, over 180 boats in five divisions start from the historic seaport of Newport in a three to six day race that crosses a stretch of the Atlantic Ocean known for challenging weather and strong Gulf Stream currents. The race website is www.bermudarace.com.

Juniper is a 225-foot multi-mission ship with a mixed gender crew of 45 that usually operates off southern New England and New York. Its missions include search and rescue, servicing aids to navigation, icebreaking, fisheries enforcement, migrant interdiction, and homeland security.
